

Dr. Wang. Graduated from Fudan University (Shanghai, China) with a B.A. in English Language and Literature and an M.A. in Western Literature and Criticism.

Obtained PhD in Comparative Literature and Cross-cultural Studies from City University of Hong Kong.

Have been teaching Chinese language and cultural classes and extra-curricular programs (e.g. after-school program, summer camp) to heritage and non-heritage students on the part-time basis at elementary, middle and high schools and weekend Chinese schools in America since 2012.

Objectives: to arouse a sustainable interest in students' Chinese language and culture learning by exploring various teaching methods; to enhance cross-cultural understanding by promoting mutual sharing and learning.